

1: Tell us about something you have read/watched/listened to that made an impact on you. Tell us why it made an impact.

It must be the movie Schindler's List. Soon after, I actually visited an ex-concentration camp near Berlin, Germany. After that experience, I simply stopped wasting time - I am very grateful right now for every minute I can breathe, learn, create, live and love.

Q2: If you could create a new product, process, business, or organization, what would this entity look like? (We especially encourage applicants interested in the College of Business Administration or the Swanson School of Engineering to respond to this question.)

I would create a business that would be beneficial for the patients suffered from cancer. I would like to apply the medical knowledge I will get if I were admitted by the school of medicine and use advanced technology to lower the price of medical treatment as much as possible.

Q3: What else should we know about you? Take this opportunity to tell the Admissions Committee anything else you think we should know as we review your application for admission.

I was born in a medical family. My parents are both doctors, so they had a great influence on me. It's such a pleasure to help people who are going through painful process to relief their pain and help them get better. That's my motivation as well as my passion to apply for school of medicine and start my career in medical treatment.
